

Patmer/Patmore family

Posted by searcher - 2009/09/03 01:25

---

I am currently researching my own family history and have recently discovered my 8th Great grandfather was a Rychard Patmer. His line started circa 1538 and carried on (name corrupted to Patmore) through the 1600's, 1700's and early 1800's. All traced descendants appeared to have been born, married and died in Much Hadham. It would therefore be safe to assume that there would be some trace of their existence in the churchyards of the village. Does anyone with local knowledge recognise the family name and which church(s) one might be worth visiting to find any evidence. Whilst I have birth years of most of the descendants it would be useful to find dates of their passing. Any pointers would be very welcomed

=====

Re:Patmer/Patmore family

Posted by rhsny - 2009/12/23 23:39

---

I too have been researching my Patmore family and also found a tree that dates to the same Rychard Patmer and subsequent Patmore descendants.

My branch of this family ended up in the Woolwich/Greenwich/Deptford area of London via Hatfield Heath, Essex.

My 4th Great Grandfather was Thomas Patmore (in the 1861 Census he is listed as John Patmore c.1803) and his wife was Sarah. Their son (my 3rd Great Grandfather) was Charles Patmore (wife Ann Honey) and their daughter - Jemima Ann Patmore was my Great Great Grandmother (1854 - 1936).

Any further information on the Patmore's would be greatly appreciated.

Rob (rhsny@aol.com)

=====